Description This simple brick shop, with central entry and large multi-paned, timber-framed windows, is one of a complex of buildings on this site. To the rear is a house possibly dating from the early years of the twentieth century. There is a large Willow at the rear and a Peppercorn on the side drive.

Internally, the shop ceiling is lined with bead-edged (or Regency) boards. Further inspection was not sought.

The verandah has been removed and the brickwork painted. The shop windows appear be substantially original.
