Description The florid polychromatic mansion Nambrok on the Latrobe River valley near Rosedale is held to have been erected c1864-67 for pastoralist John King, the builder being William Allen of Rosedale. Planned by an unknown architect in an H configuration, this single storey mansion house is an eclectic derivation of the Dutch and north Italian Renaissance fused with the Lombardic Romanesque. (RNE 004773)

Nambrok is maintained in excellent condition and is intact. The early date of construction attributed to this ornate polychrome brick mansion remains unconfirmed. (RNE 004773)

Final Recommendation

Amendment C26

Statement of significance Nambrok, near Rosedale, with prominent Dutch gables squat central Romanesque tower, segmental arched arcade, canted bay windows and strident polychromy, is the most eclectic, Picturesque brick mansion in rural Victoria. The complex is adorned with skilfully combined details in a manner unparalleled in Victoria. John King, grandson of P G King, third Governor of New South Wales, was a pre-eminent district pastoralist and Gippsland pioneer. The interior is of equal note. (RNE 004773)
